

Developing Young People's Information Research Skills

Date: 9th February 2011
Times: 9.00 a.m. – 3.30 p.m.
Venue: South Green Park Enterprise Centre,
Mattishall

Background Information

In order for young people to be able to make informed and realistic choices about learning and work, they not only need access to up-to-date information in a variety of formats, but they also need to develop skills to research information effectively.

Aims

To enhance knowledge of the variety of information sources available to young people and develop their research skills.

Objectives

- To understand what information sources are available to young people including printed materials, software programs and web-based resources.
- To explore ways of developing young people's information research skills.

Target Group

Staff who are involved in helping 14-19 year olds use information and research to make decisions about learning and work.

Costs

This opportunity, including lunch and refreshments, is provided free of charge.
